The water situation is getting acute along the farms between this city and East Montpelier, North Montpelier and Plainfield, as it is everywhere else in this section. George Howland of East Montpelier stated today that he didn't believe there are three farmers between the "Four Corners," just outside the city limits, and North Montpelier village but what have to draw water for their stock. And the same condition of affairs is to be found in all that section. Mr. Howland says he does not recollect so serious a time. The river is very low so that there is little saving at the East Montpelier mill.
